WOMAN'S HISTORY CLUB FLOURISHES

Started in 1876, Is One of Oldest Associations in State.

Prof. D. D. Lescosier, of the economics department, of the University of Wisconsin, is giving a lecture Saturday afternoon at the high school before the Woman's History club. Prof. Lescosier is but one of the brilliant men from surrounding colleges and universities who appears on the 1923-1924 program of the Woman's History club, which this year celebrates the forty-seventh anniversary of organization.

While the club, since its founding has held to a conservative membership as a means of keeping its members in the bonds of good fellowship, a new policy has been adopted this year, whereby the membership has been increased to 100. At the last meeting held Nov. 17, 12 candidates were admitted and eight at the meeting before. Since the membership has been increased, the lectures are no longer open to the public, but all the teachers in the city have a standing invitation to attend.

Organized in 1876
 The Woman's History club has a notable history in that it is one of the oldest literary organizations in the state, if not the oldest. The aim of the club is to attain knowledge for its own sake, as the story of its inception indicates.

It was in the fall of the year of 1876 at the close of the Centennial Exposition at Philadelphia, that an unusual mental activity was manifested among the women of this country. Mrs. Della Collins was one of the women who returned to her home in Janesville, after attending the exposition, with the feeling that many of the works of great art which she had seen, she was unable to appreciate because of her scanty knowledge of art.

Then and there, Mrs. Collins conceived the plan of interesting Janesville women in the study of art. The first meeting of the little society was held at the home of Mrs. J. P. Hairo, Academy street. Those present were Mrs. Collins, Mrs. Hairo, Mrs. W. D. Hastings, Mrs. J. S. Hogeboom, Mrs. F. F. Stevens, and Mrs. Louise Hunt, all of whom are now deceased.

Name Is Changed
 The first year was given to the study of the history of sculpture and its development. During the second year, architecture was taken up, this study taking two years. The Art class as it was called, met frequently at Prof. Hairo's school in the Bennett block and the winter of 1887 and 1888 found the members at the home of Mrs. H. S. Hogeboom.

On Oct. 3, 1889 the name of the class was changed to the Ladies' Art-ternoon club and a permanent organization was effected. The membership was limited to 25 with Mrs. Collins as the president. Among the early members of the club were Mrs. A. P. Lovejoy, Mrs. Bertha Sayles Hall, Miss Mary Pease, Miss Susan Jeffries, Miss Helen Welch, Miss Mary Crosby, Mrs. Marion Leavitt, Mrs. B. P. Dunwiddie and Mrs. A. E. Shumway.

 This club holds the distinction of being the first of its kind in the state and when the library was started three active members of the club, Mrs. A. P. Lovejoy, the late Mrs. Elizabeth Butler and the late Mrs. O. H. Pethers were directors.

The scope of study was thorough and varied in theme. Among the subjects taken up in the early years were: Egyptian history, religion and art; India, China, Greece and Rome in comparing the old world religions with the Christian religion; Homer, Virgil, Dante, Goethe and Schiller, as leading literary men of their respective countries.

French history and literature and literature and German philosophy. In the year 1891 the 116 plays and sonnets of Shakespeare were studied; American history and literature were subjects for 1892 and 1893 in view of the coming of the World's Fair.

Posters Lecture Course
 For the past eight years in place of the study class, the club has focused a course of lectures and in this capacity has been the means of bringing to the city authorities on the great questions of the day.

An auxiliary branch was organized in 1894 to which daughters of the original members were invited to join. The auxiliary had a membership of 15. Mrs. David W. Holmes, the president of the club this year, was one of the charter members of the auxiliary.

In 1896-1897 the name was again changed to the Woman's History club and the auxiliary absorbed by the mother club with the membership increased to 45. Three years ago the club absorbed the Twentieth Century club, which had been organized with similar aims.

Educators scheduled to appear before the club this season are Carl Russell Fish, University of Wisconsin, who spent a year in France making a thorough study of conditions there; Theodore Gerald Soares,

University of Chicago, theology department; and Arnold Bennett Hall, University of Wisconsin, who is to acquaint the club with the political parties in view of the presidential election next fall.

PAGEANT DEPICTS BADGER HISTORY

Fete Opens Annual Wisconsin Products Exposition at Milwaukee.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS)

Milwaukee—For a brief hour or so tonight Wisconsin will live once more in the days of early history when thousands of citizens will witness the unfolding of the greatest of all its pageants of historical and industrial developments at the opening of the Wisconsin Products Exposition.

The first white man, Jean Nicolet, 1634; the discovery of the Mississippi, 1673; the coming of the pioneers, 1800-1820; emigrants from the old world, 1829; Lincoln's call for volunteers, 1861—all these and more will be shown in pageant, on canvas or in story staged under the direction of the Wisconsin players.

President Calvin Coolidge has sent a message of greeting and well wishes for a greater Wisconsin future and this will be read to exposition visitors. Scores of governors and personages of other countries likewise have sent delegates bearing the good will of the nation and the world to Wisconsin's industrial builders.

Behind the scenes of pageant splendors are the exhibits that make for the greatness of the state. They represent, industrially and agriculturally the wealth of Wisconsin. Sources estimated at more than two billions of dollars.

OIL FIELD FIRES CAUSE BIG LOSSES

Flames Greatest Enemy of Industry; Lightning Great Cause.

Washington—Fire is the greatest enemy of the oil industry in the United States. A Bureau of Mines survey covering only the more extensive fires in a 10-year period, indicates total losses of about 13,000,000 barrels of oil and more than 5,000,000,000 feet of natural gas.

An aggregate loss of about $14,000,000 was shown during 1918, 1919 and 1920 through fires in storage tanks, pipe line systems and in refineries. A tank fire at Beaumont, Texas, in July, 1922, wrought damage estimated at $2,000,000, while throughout the country during the same month other oil fires caused more than $3,000,000 damage. A recent fire at Humble, Texas, destroyed two tanks containing approximately 800,000 barrels of crude oil.

While the survey showed that lightning probably causes the majority of fires, carelessness and lack of suitable preventive measures account for many conflagrations.

NEW OIL SERVICE STATION IS OPENED

A crew of six men have been busy since that time with a never ending flow of cars. The service station house is not yet completed. NOT A STEADY JOB

A breeder of dairy cattle in one of the southern states is quite as well known for his astuteness and for his attitude toward all his help as for the quality of the cattle he breeds, and his cattle are known far and wide.

A Negro, came to him once, looking for a job. He looked the Negro over critically, for he was always in need of help, and said: "You don't look to me like a man who wants a steady job."

"Yes, sir, boss," said the Negro, "I want er steady job."

"Go to work, but I don't like your looks."

He went and found that he not only had to milk twenty cows, but care for the milk, wash the utensils, feed, clean the stables and drive the cows to and from the pasture. This took about eighteen hours a day. He was lame, however, and stayed two months and then gave notice.

"I know it," I knew it," said the boss, "you just don't want a steady job."

"Yes, sir, I does," the Negro replied, "but yo has been layin' me off six hours every night."—Judge.

WHY HE SHUNNED GOLF
Just before lunch a man came to see me and asked me to play golf with him on Thursday.

I said I didn't play it.

He clutched the table for support. "But you don't know what you miss," he said. "It's the best game in the world. Keeps you fit too; gives you an excuse—a reason—for getting out into the open air and walking."

I said that I liked the open air and walking with a pure affection, for their own sake alone, and I hated organized exercise.

He said I completely missed the point.

I said I disliked the principle of employing a servant to carry the implements of one's game.

He said that if I felt like that I could carry my own. Lots of men did.

I said that a burden rendered a walk a pance.

He said again that I missed the point, and some day, when I was fat and stiff, as he could discern, I was rapidly becoming, I should be sorry for it.

I told him to go to Hull and Hall-fax.—You Know What People—By E. V. Lucas.

A Vote of Thanks.

The public owes a vote of thanks to Judge George Grimm of Rock county circuit court for his positive action in imposing heavy fines on liquor violators and for his sharp arraignment of bootlegging and all that goes with this variety of law violation. A public officer who holds that any person, contributing to the downfall of his fellow men, must bear the responsibility and answer, so far as possible, for his crime, deserves
the backing of the community to the full. Sentences in keeping with the crime are highly satisfying to the self-respecting public. But an official statement which throws the weight of a high office squarely behind full and complete law enforcement, in spirit as well as letter, makes the law-abiding citizen want to snatch off his hat
and emit a loud "Hooray!"

It looks as though Henry ran out of gas in South Dakota.

"Ersatz" Money Not Wanted.

Until the contrary interpretation by President Coolidge of the will of the American agricultural interests as it concerns currency and government
lending, there was an impression among the misled or not too well-informed public that the farmer was legislating for fat money and an inflated and unsecured currency. President Coolidge found the report without foundation after months of discussion of the nation's agricultural
problems with the representatives of this phase of American life.

The president gives a certificate of financial health for the American farmer. He announces that the farmer wants no financial aid from the government which will impair the financial standing and stability of that government.

There was a time in American history when the farmer was a true believer in the potency of the government printing presses not supported by a full government treasury. That faith may even have lingered in some quarters until the unpleasant but vividly recent experience in fiat money
of Germany and Russia.

The farmers may covet government loans or even control of the Federal Reserve Bank but the nation has the assurance of President Coolidge
that the farmers will be among the last to recommend a departure from the thrifty and safe custom of Uncle Sam to back his paper with gold.

When the number of German marks passed the number of remedies for colds the financial situation in Germany became hopeless.

Whenever France is spoken to about the debts
she owes America, she immediately says, "Let's talk about something else."

The "Prophets" Again.

"The year 1926 is destined to shake the world
to its foundation both physically and politically.
It is to be a succession of plagues, famines, floods, shipwrecks, rioting and revolution." This is the cheerful prediction handed out from the headquarters of the professional prognosticators' union
in London just as the world is preparing to celebrate a merry New Year. However, it's two years ahead. The British almanac makers are also beginning to issue their annual prophecies,
and as usual they are filled with woo. They strike nearer home, being for the coming year. Persons looking for something to worry about should obtain their almanacs by all means. Every corner of the civilized globe is in for a terrible time, according to the advance notices.

But before ordering our supply of sackcloth
and ashes let us pause and consider the past performances of these chronic creep-hangers. Last year just about this time, if we remember correctly, they were predicting that 1923 would be absolutely the worst ever, the positive limit. It is needless to recapitulate the harrowing details. But did the pessimistic predictions pan out?
Hasn't 1923 been a pretty good sort of year, after all? The prophets calculate on the short memory of the public. They don't expect to be checked up on their gruesome guesses.

The only way to be pretty sure of having your predictions come to pass is to prophesy something pleasant and cheerful. That's the sort of thing that happens lots of times in this good old world
of ours than the horrors emanating from the muddy minds of these chronic Cassandras. Really,
the world has no use for these wallers who lag
superfluously on the stage.

Massachusetts is decreasing the auto accidents
in that state by a rigid enforcement of the speed
and other regulatory laws without fear or favor.

Art and Indecency.

Speaking at the Civic Club in Kansas City, Dr.
Wolfe Hopper, actor of nearly half a century and known to several million people of the United States and Europe, gave some serious comment on the present day tendencies of the stage and the kind of entertainment provided by the managers.

He spoke of the resort to nudity to draw patronage as an example of the consequence of the
decay of sentiment, which, when brushed aside,
leaves only carnality.

FIGHTING THE WHITE PLAGUE

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN.

Washington.—One of the signs that Christmas is surely approaching is the appearance of the tuberculous Christmas stamps. This year there are to be 3,000,000,000 of these stamps issued to America. To visualize a billion stamps you have only to imagine a belt of them strung more than half way around the world. The seals, however,
are destined for a greater purpose than that of papering the globe. The penny that each one brings in helps to cut down the death rate and the suffering from tuberculosis.

It is an old story to say that in this country
the annual death rate from tuberculosis is much higher than the number of American World War casualties. There is no news in the fact that 95 per cent of the people are infected with tuberculosis before they are 18 years old. In the majority of individuals the disease does not become active at the time of infection, because the body
is strong enough, or cured for well enough, so that the germs are killed or lie inactive in the glands of the chest. But later, illness or weakness may lower the resistance of the body and latent germs begin to grow and spread.

In other words, tuberculosis is one of the great insidious enemies of health. And the Christmas seal is the tiny but powerful emblem of the national crusade against the deadly tuberculosis
germ.

The money gained by selling the seals is used in various ways to stamp out the disease. Beds for tuberculous patients are established in hospitals, and also clinics are maintained, where patients may go for periodic physical examination,
so that the disease may be discovered in time for successful treatment. Public health nurses are given special training in detection and care of tuberculous cases. Research work of importance in combating the disease is carried on. Lectures and demonstrations are given. A health crusade in which several million school children
take part is carried on to teach daily health habits. And open air schools and camps for children predisposed to tuberculosis are maintained.
For 14 years, with one exception, the stamps that make this work possible have been on the market at Christmas time. But the story of the stamp is not always familiar, even to the persons who buy them most liberally.

The idea of selling seals to raise funds did not originate in this country. Sixteen years ago, Jacob Rills received a letter posted from Denmark
and bearing a little, decorated sticker on the back. He inquired about the peculiar stamp and learned that in Europe such stamps were being sold at Christmas to raise money for anti-tuberculosis work.

Mr. Rills wrote a magazine article on the subject, and it happened that the article was read
by a Red Cross nurse in Delaware, who was working hard for a small tuberculosis hospital. She arranged for a local sale of similar stamps at Christmas, and raised $1,000 for this first tuberculosis sanatorium in Delaware.

The next year the interest of the Red Cross organization was aroused, and under the direction of the American Red Cross a nation-wide sale of seals was held. This time the returns were $155,000.

For some years after that, the National Tuberculosis Association and the Red Cross worked together on the annual seal campaigns. It is interesting to note that back in 1910 Red Cross officials felt that the Christmas seal had about reached the height of its vogue and would probably bring in less money each succeeding year.
It was shown that in some communities fewer seals were sold in 1909 than in 1908. But to of-set the losses, other communities became interested in the project and each year the profit total grew. In fact, there have been few years when returns from the stamps did not show a material increase over the preceding years. Last year the sales amounted to more than $3,840,000.

Many people habitually think of the stickers
as Red Cross seals, because the early seals bore
the Red Cross emblem, but the fact is the campaigns are now conducted by the National Tuberculosis Association alone. Since 1919 the double-barred cross has appeared on the seals.

The cross with two bars, one crossing the standard a little above the other, was carried by the matriarchs of Judaism and Christianity, and is still used in the Greek Catholic Church. It figured in the history of the medieval crusades.
When Godfrey, Duke of Lorraine, rode into Jerusalem and became ruler of the city, in 1099, he chose a double-barred cross to be his standard.
And when he returned to France it became the standard of his household.

The bars of the white cross of Lorraine are much further apart than those of the patriarchal cross. During the recent war, this Lorraine cross was adopted as the insignia of one of the American divisions that hoped to be located in a section of France where it is popular.

The history of the double-barred cross makes it a fitting emblem for a crusade, and it was chosen to represent the world-wide tuberculosis campaign at the International Conference held in Berlin in 1902.

This year the seal to be sold in this country
displays two of the double-barred crosses, and below, a picture of a little child sitting before a tombstone. In the flames the child sees a vision of Santa Claus.

Planning a seal that will sell to the extent of a billion copies is an exacting task. It is particularly difficult in that the artist must draw his design on the actual area of the stamp. The proper colors must then be chosen, and links to be used must be perfected.

The artist chosen to make the design for this year is Rudolph S. Bohman by birth, but received his training in this country while cutting signatures for rubber stamps. Today he is internationally known as a designer of wood engravings, posters, and illustrations. The artist was set to work last April. By July 1st, delivery of the seals from the printer was begun, so that by December every part of the country would be supplied with seals, and ready for the signal
to start the Christmas crusade.

The secret of popularity of the tuberculous
Christmas seal lies in its simplicity. The penny sticker is within reach of everyone.
The stamps themselves have not completed their mission when they are exchanged for coin. They go out as seals and decorations on mail to every corner of this country, and to foreign countries.
And so the story of the fight against tuberculosis
is spread and more people learn how they too
can help in this great crusade.

The web of music, dance and song," said the comedian, "is destructive of refinement, of sentiment,
of wit and of the imagination, without which
nothing is beautiful."

"The leg in slinky tights was a thing of symmetry, the naked leg on the stage is not beautiful,
but disgusting; for it takes as granted that we want our sensations raw and brutal."

"As a matter of fact, we don't want them that way," declared Mr. Hopper, amid great applause.
"Humanity has struggled through the alchemy
of fire and blood and death for thousands of years to exalt its nature into a soul. And we have the naked leg thrust at us. 'Enough!'"

Uncle Hiram Haversack says that with Ireland
in the league of nations, peace will have a fighting chance.

The south will not stand for a wet platform in

knows that every community must have its gin.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

"THE LAST SHALL BE FIRST,"
"The last shall be first," so the Good Book tells,
and I know that it is true,
And this is the tale of a cunning mind which came me a laugh or two.

There were twelve of us bound for a little town,
and we sat in the smoker's gloom,
And discussed our chances there and then of
getting a hotel room;

But one man, old in the traveling game, said
casually to us:
"I've made this town a hundred times, and they'll meet you with a bus."

The bus was there when the train pulled in,
and we made a rush for it.

We scrambled luggage and weary men, for a chance in the big to sit.

But the wise old traveling man got up in an indignant sort of way

And took his time to walk the stretch from the platform to the drive;

He stood at the steps with his hat in hand and helped the women in.

And he piled their baggage at their feet with
a most delightful grin.

I never dreamed he could be so deep or could play so sharp a trick.

I never dreamed that a grip or two made a
baricade so thick.

But I noticed at last when we started off, this courtly man and kind

Hadn't left a seat for himself inside, but was hanging on the hand.

I was sorry for him in his childlike way, but I
grieve for him no more.

For he gave one leap for the clerk inside when we reached the hotel door.

We were blocked in the bus by cases large, by
bundles and baskets, too:

A fat old lady barred the way, as fat old ladies
do.

But at last we got to the clerk inside, and he said with a look of gloom:

"I'm sorry, gentle, but the first chap in has taken our only room!"

Then it dawned on us how we'd all been tricked,
and that kindly man we cursed.

For we'd learned that the last man on the bus
to the hotel clerk came inside.

REP. WILLIAM J. GRAHAM

That the Republican party will wreck itself if it resorts to sectionalism in selecting appointees
for important offices in Congress is the warning issued to the party by Rep. William J. Graham of Illinois, mentioned as probable rival of Rep. Nick Longworth of Ohio for the post of floor leader of the house this coming session of congress.

"If the country feels that this system still endures in this regard a democratic president will be elected next fall," he stated frankly recently.

Graham is a westerner by adoption. He was born in New Castle, Pa., February 2,

was seven years of age. His folks settled in Mercer county, that state, and he has made his home there ever since. His home is in Aleno.

The studied in the public schools and at the University of Illinois. He was admitted to the

His first important political office was that of state's attorney for Mercer county, which position he held from 1900 to 1908. He first entered congress in 1915. He has served continuously ever since.

Personal Health Service

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

Noted Physician and Author

As already mentioned, the mystery of normal sleep seems impossible to solve, even after the investigation of the phenomenon can be carried only so far without waking the subject. The physiology of sleep is therefore only partly known, yet it is worth while for everybody who ever has occasion to sleep to know the physiology of sleep as far as it goes.

Most human tissues, the glands particularly, have their alternating periods of activity and rest. When metabolism (the oxidation or combustion process of life) is reduced below the level necessary to cause consciousness or mental activity, sleep ensues. Consciousness is more or less completely lost according to the depth of sleep. The most profound or soundest sleep is about an hour after the beginning—
at this time it requires a loud noise to awaken the sleeper. The first few hours of sleep are most refreshing, the later hours of sleep are more shallow and less refreshing. In the early morning there is a twilight zone
when consciousness is only half lost;
it is then that many persons have dreams of spirits and other phan-tasms which, when they presently awaken, are found to be entirely unrelated to the actual events of the night.

In sleep the eyeballs roll upward and outward. The breathing is slower and deeper and more costal (upper part of the chest). The heart usually has a periodical increase and decrease of the breathing is noticed, resembling
what is called Cheyne-Stokes
breathing in certain pathological conditions. The blood pressure falls from 10 to 15 to 10 to 10 millimeters of mercury. The volume of the brain diminishes—less blood in the brain, less pressure, an important factor in the relief of headache; at the same time the volume (circumfer-ence and weight) of the limbs increases, because more blood is distributed to the surface and extremities. The constant secretions—such as the urine, the tears and the mucus
from the glands of the nose and throat—diminish. Dryness of the throat, pruritus (itching) of the eyes,
is a familiar indication of sleepiness.

When sleep sets in the power of conscious movement is lost first, and then the ability to feel. The individual begins to awaken he becomes conscious of sound sensations
before he recovers the power of voluntary movement.

In children with a normal period of 12 or 14 hours of sleep, the first period of deepest sleep which comes an hour or two after the beginning of sleep, there is a second period of deeper sleep toward morning. Some adults resemble children in this respect, particularly adults whose greatest mental activity comes toward evening, and who are least efficient in the early part of the day.

Nighthawks therefore lie abed in the forenoon, when humdrum folk are up and doing. Hate to go to bed, and waken to get up.

What makes us sleep? That's the mystery. One theory credits the accumulation of acid waste products
such as lactic acid in the muscles.
This theory harmonizes with the idea
that hardest work or exercise favors sleep. Next theory attributes sleep to redirection of oxygen supply to brain cells below the level necessary for conscious activity. Another possible cause is the action of certain toxins, such as the toxin. Another assumes anemia of the brain, or diminished blood flow in the brain; this fits well with common schemes of resting sleep. We'll examine some of these theories and see whether they have any practical use.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.
The Blood-Thinning Business.
I like to drink a malt wine in the morning. Have been told it will thin my blood. How can that be possible
when I know that the blood is thickened by smoking? I drink it because it regulates my bowels.

Answer.—They inject what is called physiological or "normal" salt solution, which is about a teaspoonful of salt in the pint, because that is approximately the salt strength of the blood and other body fluids, but the solution is injected merely to restore volume and to stimulate, not to produce blood. Then I am in error in saying that it thins the blood. The salt has an undesirable effect on the blood it is rather to thicken it, because it withdraws water from the blood. Perhaps you'd get equally satisfactory results from a good swig of water, or add morphia, as you say,
if you prefer using some salt in the water. I don't think it will do you any harm.

Yes, a Man Can Stop.
Is there any way to stop a man 30
years of age from smoking cigarettes?
He has tried every other method, but the habit, but without success. Do you think smoking harmful? If this man eventually breaks the smoking habit,
would he be likely to turn to evil diversions? Sometimes I think smoking is a harmless habit. Other times I imagine it dulls the senses. Does smoking affect the eyes

How to Care for it—and Drive it like an Expert

Gears Can Be Changed Surely and Silently with the Double-Declutching Method

CRASH—You have changed gear all right, but it does make you mad to notice the way people turn around and smile at your performance.

Sometimes you can make a perfectly silent gear change, yet at other times, you cannot change without crashing and grinding gears. Why is this? What is the secret of changing gears silently, not just now and again, but EVERY time.

To understand just WHY you crash gears, you must understand what happens when you move the gear shift lever from one speed to another. If you will go out to your car and make a few simple experiments, I will guarantee that inside half an hour, you will learn more about the "art" of gear changing, than you will be able to learn while driving a car in the ordinary way for six years.

First, jack up one rear wheel and securely chock up the other, then remove the gear case cover. Now have some one spin the wheel around (be sure the brake is OFF) while you look in the gear box. You will notice that only one shaft, the "main" shaft, revolves. Now start up the engine (leaving the gear shift lever in neutral) and look into the gear box again. You will now see that the "main" shaft is stationary, while the "lay" shaft revolves. Now push out the clutch pedal, and you will notice that the "lay" shaft STOPS revolving. Keep out the clutch pedal while you move the shift lever into first speed, then let the clutch pedal back gently.

You see that as soon as you let the clutch pedal back, both the "lay" shaft and the "main" shaft revolves, and the rear wheel you have jacked up turns around. What you did when you moved the shift lever, was to mesh the large gear wheel on the "main" shaft, with the small wheel on the "lay" shaft.

Here is the secret of silent gear changing. When you grind gears, you are trying to mesh the gear wheel on the "main" shaft with the gear wheel on the "lay" shaft when the "lay" shaft is turning over either too fast or too slow for the gear on the "main" shaft. To make a silent gear change, you must have the "lay" shaft running at the proper speed for the gear you wish to engage.

But, I can hear you say, HOW am I going to reduce the speed of this "lay" shaft to the CORRECT speed?

There are two methods of changing gear—the SINGLE-DECLUTCHING method, and the DOUBLE-DECLUTCHING method. With the Single-Declutching method, you push out the clutch ONCE, then wait until you think the "lay" shaft is running at the correct speed, then change.

The second and better method, known only to a small number of drivers, is called the DOUBLE-DECLUTCHING method, because you push out the clutch TWICE every time you change gears. With this method you make the engine itself regulate the speed of the "lay" shaft, and you are able, with a little practice, to become, in a short time, as proficient at changing gears as an old experienced driver.

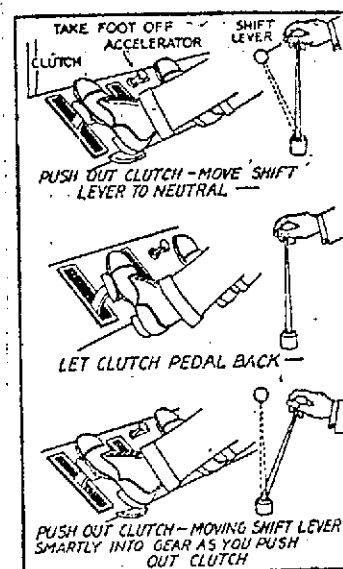

Here is how it is done. After engaging low speed, you accelerate the engine to start the gear moving along the road. When you are ready to change up, you take your foot off the accelerator and the engine at once slows down to idling speed, which is the speed the "lay" shaft should revolve to make a silent change of gears, so after you push out the clutch to enable you to move the gear shift lever to neutral, LET THE CLUTCH PEDAL BACK FOR JUST A FRACTION OF A SECOND to connect the "lay" shaft to the engine.

You now have the "lay" shaft running at the CORRECT speed, so as you push out the clutch pedal with your foot, move the shift lever smartly into second speed. Your foot on the clutch pedal and your hand on the gear shift lever should move together, while the clutch is being pushed out, the gear shift lever is being pushed into gear. When the gears are engaged, the clutch is allowed to come back in the usual way.

To use the double-declutching method successfully, it is necessary that the throttle stop on the carburetor be set at a point that will allow the engine to idle slowly when the foot is off the accelerator.

Learn this method first by sitting in the driving seat and practicing without the engine running, until you can make the movements in their proper order SMARTLY AND WITHOUT HESITATION. The whole operation must be carried out in from 1 1/2 to 2 seconds.

This is the best method to use in making a silent change from a low to a higher gear. When you change gear on a hill, however, you change from a high to a lower gear. Next week I will show you how to apply this system on changing from a higher to a lower gear.

AT THE REVERLY.
Novel as a picture, and artistic in production, “The Marriage Mule” is worthy of its vast exploitation. A faun is personified by Charles de Roche, who lives a human being in the effort to understand their strange manner of denying elemental instincts for power and money. Jack Mulhall has the part of the penniless Lord Stonbury, who allies himself to an heiress whom he does not love, to establish himself financially. The faun takes on the identity of an Italian prince to show human beings the folly of conventions and traditions. Mary Astor, Agnes Ayres, Charles de Roche, and Ethel Wales play to perfection this somewhat whimsical theme.

Oscar Hoel's six piece orchestra will give a program, Sunday night, in addition to two comedy pictures.

Perhaps no picture of recent years was more popular than “The Four Horsemen,” so that a picture by the same author, Vincente Minnelli, “The Marriage Mule,” should attract wide attention. A romance of Monaco, the vicinity of Monte Carlo, has been made the scene of the picture.

Novel as the picture is, it is a comedy of the same name. The cast is as distinguished and lengthy as ever in the history of the picture.

U. S.-Argentina Tests Organized

Hartford, Conn.—It is probable the 5,000 miles between the United States and Argentina may be covered by radio during the fourth series of transatlantic tests organized by the American Radio Relay League, to take place between Dec. 22 and Jan. 10.

The tests this year will be primarily a listening contest for American and Canadian amateurs, and they will in addition be turning in for incoming signals from France and England. Listen for the faint note of C. W. stations operated in Argentina. Between 25 and 50 transmitting stations there are prepared to work in the tests. Time calculations will be on Greenwich mean time.

The greatest obstacle with which the South American amateurs will have to contend in sending as far north as this will be the difference in the temperature and atmospheric conditions, which will accompany their summer climate.

Getting It Straight.

A deputization of clerical folk called by appointment at Lambeth palace and 150 their views before the Archbishop of Canterbury. Randall Davidson gave an answer in his non-committal way and the deputization, out on Vauxhall Embankment, considered the matter.

“When the last trump is sounded,” declared the leader recently, “the archbishop will appoint a committee to investigate the matter. He will then at their leisure whether it is the last trump or the last trump but one.”

“Alternatively,” suggested a young curate, “the last trump and the last trump.”—Exchange.

GAZETTE GOOD TIMES CLUB FOR ALL SCHOOL BOYS AND GIRLS

By FLORENCE SLOWEN HYDE.

Much interest is being taken in the contest for individual honor buttons offered by the Gazette to Good Times club members. Owing to the fact that so many new branches have been organized, a recent list of members for participation in monthly recreation programs and for passing honor buttons at little tests may be made up by members of new branches. This list is extended to old members who did not get the contest work started during November.

Seventy-five percent of the points to be allowed for grade in department, perfect attendance and average grade in all studies for November. The teacher may give credit for tasks listed under service and for handwork at her discretion.

The records for the individual point contest are to be kept by the teacher and no blanks are furnished for this purpose by the Gazette. The names of pupils who secure a total of 450 points or an average of 80 points per month for six months from Nov. 1 to May 1, are to be reported to the club editor by May 15. A form for the record is kept by the teacher or a committee of pupils can be drawn up easily by referring to the point schedule. This schedule and the contest rules were published in the Gazette, Oct. 20-21. Schools that failed to type this clipping and those not in the Good Times club at that time, may receive this information on request.

December Honor Tests

Owing to the fact that many schools will have several days holiday during this month, 20 points will be allowed for passing one test. Boys will be tested on running broad jump, while the test for girls will be slightly different but on the same principle. The running broad jump is a jumping test that is slightly different from the other tests.

Running Broad Jump.—Class 2, boys weighing 60 to 80 pounds; honor standard, 12 feet. Class 3, boys weighing over 80 pounds; honor standard, 12 feet. Place a take-off board, 4 inches by 18 inches, so that it is firmly imbedded in the ground, or a line may be made by making furrows about 1/2 inch deep in the ground. The boy may run from a point any distance beyond the take-off board or line, starting slowly and gradually increasing his speed and judging his distance so that he will jump from the take-off board or line with one foot and land on the ground on both feet. In the final test each boy is allowed three trials and the best jump should reach the honor standard. The distance should be measured with tape at right angles to the take-off board, or line, from the front of the board to the nearest point at which any part of the body touches the ground. If a jumper thinks he is going to fall he should try to fall forward, as if he falls backward, the distance measured for his jump will be much shorter.

Running, Hop, Step and Jump.—Class 2, girls weighing 40 to 60 pounds; honor standard, 10 feet. Class 3, girls weighing over 60 pounds; honor standard, 12 feet. Arrange take-off as described under broad jump for boys. The girl makes one hop off the take-off board or line, landing on the same foot from which she hopped; from this position she takes one step further landing on the opposite foot; she then jumps from this foot, landing on both feet. The measurement is taken from the take-off line to the nearest point touched by any part of the body, the same as in the running broad jump. The girl may run from a point any distance beyond the take-off line before making her hop. The best way to practice this test is to practice each part separately and then try it all together.

Children under 10 pounds weight are not required to take these tests, but may be allowed 20 points when they can do the following rhythmic test successfully: Place a small object eight to ten inches high upright on the floor or ground to be used as a candlestick. The player runs in single file and jump with both feet at once over the candlestick while all recite:

"Tick he tickle,
Jack be nimble,
Jack jump over the candlestick."
Each player tries to clear the candlestick without knocking it over. The honor standard shall be reached when the candlestick can be cleared in three out of five trials.

FIVE NEW BRANCHES

Five new branches of the Good Times club are reported this week. Two are located in Waterloo county and three in Rock county.

Walworth county branches are as follows:
Shady Lawn School, Dist. 9, La Grange.—Miss Rebecca Johnson, teacher. Members: Isabel and Grace Wilson, Margaret, Helen and Willie Conely, Martha Grabler, Clarence Peterson, Ethel Schrader, Glen and Fredie Kautson, Dorothy and Norman Kyle.
Lyman School, Joint Dist. 3, Richmond.—Miss Myrtle Hanson, teacher. Members: Adolph Rappold, Janet Stewart, Francis, Howard, Mary and Margaret Thorsen, Gustafson, Florence and Bernice Wendt.

AD G T CLUB

HELP FOR THE HANDS.
In the carrying out of its aim to help boys and girls find interesting things to do in leisure time, the Good Times club seeks to encourage construction activities in both home and school. Some children are more apt than others in handicraft projects, but there are few children that do not find joy in making things with their own hands.

The rural school does not have the facilities for manual arts that are afforded in city schools, nor does the rural teacher have the time to direct elaborate construction projects. Coping saw work with thin wood, is, however, within the scope of the average rural school, and also offers much in the way of interesting and productive activity for boys and girls at home.

After a wide search the Good Times club editor has found some helps that make coping saw construction easy. "Educational Toys" is a book that contains just the information needed to carry on toy making successfully in school or home. The toys illustrated and described will appeal to the interest of children and are well within the child's power to construct. Full directions are given for making 67 toys, including animals, wind-up toys, stationary toys, moving toys and puzzles. Most of these toys may be made with a coping saw, which may be purchased for a small sum. Full contests, news items, etc., in the school book regularly, and I keep records of the school meetings and report to the Gazette.

Wednesday was visiting day at our school. Friends and mothers began coming at ten in the morning and then stayed the entire day. They brought their lunch and we school children served them one hot dish and coffee at noon. We had our regular class work until three o'clock.

After that we had a meeting of our school society. The principal part of the program was a debate between the seventh and eighth graders on this question: Resolved that it is more profitable for the average farmer to keep more horses on the farm than to keep a few horses and a tractor. Mrs. Arthur Spencer, Mrs. Oliver Chapin, and Miss Maude Jones were appointed by our president to act as judges. The horses won 2 to 1. We surely enjoyed working this up. We did it for language and agriculture at school and we worked our fathers evenings on it at home. Our arguments lasted 25 minutes and one side made seven teen distinctive points. We are planning one debate a month.

"We began serving hot lunches on November first and we surely are enjoying them. The neighborhood Community club and school children earned all the equipment including a three burner oil stove. The upper grade girls cross-stitched six tea towels and made holders.

"We are beginning work on the music memory contest."

NEW LETTERS

West Center School, Virginia Snyder, reporter.—"Last Wednesday we invited our mothers to observe our regular school work. After the classes, Miss Olson gave a talk to the mothers.

"Then a lunch was served by fifth grade pupils. They wore little white aprons and Miss Davies made little white caps.

"All but three mothers came over. During the month of November we have been playing Relay race, Shooter Around the School house, Lemon, Lemon, and Guess Who.

"We like the Relay race best." Eagle School, Arthur Johnson, reporter.—"I was elected reporter of the Good Times Club. We had a Halloween party in Oct. We had a short program and played games after which we ate popcorn, peanuts, and candy. We are planning a program and box social to be given Nov. 27. Our teacher is Agnes Reilly."

DESCRIBES GAZETTE MOVIES

Gertrude Farnsworth, Spring Brook school writes an excellent description of the Gazette motion picture entertainment in that school, Nov. 24.

"I enjoyed the moving pictures very much. The three bears' house was such an old fashioned little hut. The mother bear had to pull the baby out of bed before he would get up. They were going to a picnic. The mother bear made the porridge then they went. The car was the first Ford made I guess. They took a pig and some chickens with them when they went to the picnic. The baby bear broke up the picnic. The father bear spanked him because he broke it up then they started for home. They had a short in the carburetor when they got almost home and they had to push it, the baby bear steered it. The ending was interesting where the little girl's father shot at the bears and they ran home.

"The rice field was also interesting. The first thing they did was to plow the fields with tractors then they cultivated it. They had mules instead of horses. Then they sowed the rice. When it was three months old they flooded it. Then they harvested it. Then they take it to the mill to be milled. After that it is done it is put in bags and the bags are sewed up. It is then sent to different stores until at last it is found in the home.

"The next picture was the 'Cricket on the Hearth' by Charles Dickens. I liked it best of all. The people dressed old fashioned. The most interesting part was where that man dressed up as an old man.

"The next picture was about the Gazette. The interesting things were how it was made. How it was printed and then comes out folded all ready to be delivered by the delivery boys running all ways. And the big delivery trucks.

"The last picture was the picture of California. The interesting part of it was the Golden Gate. Mrs. Simpson had told us about it and what it looked like but we didn't expect to see it. Another interesting thing was the trees. I have never seen a tree that could have a road through it. Another interesting thing was the ocean and the way it dashed upon the rocks. The falls were pretty. They came from a big river down over the rocks."

INTEREST GROWING IN MUSIC CONTEST

Indications Point to Large Number of Entries in Memory Event.

Indications are that a large number of schools will participate in the music memory contest which is to open to state graded and one-room school pupils and for which $50 worth of prizes are offered by the Gazette.

Local contents are to be conducted by the teacher in each school in time to select a team of four to participate in inter-school contests at Janesville in April. It was thought best to set these contents out of the way before the township and spelling contest and the preparations for diploma examinations. A list of 24 selections is to be studied.

Grading Divisions Made

In the tests for Gazette honor award buttons, division A pupils are to be tested on ability to recognize the entire list and write name of composition, name and nationality of composer correctly. Division B pupils are to be tested on 15 selections. Division C pupils are to be tested for recognition only and will not be required to write the names, etc.

The two pupils making the highest score in each of the three divisions in each school will receive music memory contest honor buttons. These buttons are different from those offered in the individual point contest.

and there is no connection between the two contests.

Pupils are to be classified for music memory tests as to ability rather than age and grade. One of the county prize winners last year was a fourth grade pupil and the winner of the first prize in the state graded school contest was a sixth grade pupil. The team for the inter-school contest will be selected from those who take the division A test in the local school.

Any pupil of a one-room or state graded school in southern Wisconsin is eligible to compete in inter-school contests, but not over four pupils may be entered from the state school. Two sets of prizes will be given by the Gazette, one set for the inter-school contest between pupils of one-room schools and one set for the contest between pupils of state graded schools.

List of Prizes

Prizes will be as follows for each contest:
First—Solid gold lyre pin, suitably engraved.
Second—Good gold lyre pin, suitably engraved.

Third and Fourth—Sterling silver enameled and engraved pins.
Sterling silver perfect score pin will be awarded also to all who make a perfect score in the inter-school contests on name of composition, name and nationality of composer, in addition contestants will be graded on supplementary information and prize winners determined in this way if four or more make perfect scores on the official list.

The official list selected by county school authorities and endorsed by musical education experts is available in nearly all makes of phonograph records and many of the selections may be used also for picture study or correlated with literature and history study.

200 ATTEND CLUB
ROUND-UP MEETINGL. E. Jackson Named Chairman
of Rock County Junior Club
Work for 1924.

Rock county's future in agriculture is assured.

When 200 boys and girls, together with their parents, such as were assembled at the Rock county junior club round-up held in the Janesville Y. M. C. A. Saturday, continue to show such energy and spirit, farming will improve. The next generation of farmers will farm better for the reason their interest has been aroused in the producing of a superior product and quality always pays a profit in agriculture.

Rock county has had great club years, but 1923 achieved previous records for approximately 350 youngsters from the townships carried through club projects. Rock county now seeks to double this number through an extended junior club program and make 1924 still greater.

Officers Elected
Previous to the club banquet served at noon, there was a meeting of the county advisory committee, formed a year ago, to have charge of club projects. J. A. Craig, whose efforts have resulted in the development of club projects in the county, announced that he would be unable to take an active part in the work during the remaining winter months. The following officers were elected:

Chairman, Lyman E. Jackson, agriculture instructor of the Janesville high school.
Vice-Chairman, J. A. Craig.
Secretary, Jack C. Nisbet.
Rock county Livestock Agent.
Treasurer, H. C. Hemminger, secretary, Rock County Farm Bureau.

In addition to the five clubs carried through this year, a new club will be added to take in home economics for the girls and a poultry club formed under the direction of County Agent R. T. Glasco. The girls' club will be conducted under the direction of G. T. Langlois, superintendent of schools with the supervisory teachers assisting in organization and supervision.

It is up to Rock county to again advance her own record although there is no doubt the county was "again first" in club work having won the first prize in the state on club work on sheep and pigs at the Junior Livestock exposition and were heavy winners on the junior dairy calves exhibited at the state fair. Samples from the corn club will be exhibited at the International coming week.

Honor J. A. Craig
Two club members from the county, Alice Clarke, Janesville and Archie Tomlin, Evansville, were awarded the free trips to the Chicago International, being selected from among all club members in Wisconsin for this prize.

There will be a change in the name of the baby-beef club to the Junior Livestock exposition department, to take in not only the best animals but also the best judging which are eligible to show at the annual Madison round-up.

The winner of the championship sheep club was explained by Russell Glynn, Milton, winner of the championship prize offered in the pig club.

Louis Altman, Beloit, pig club member told of what he wanted from her senior partner—the business man who purchased the pig under the contract provisions. She insisted that the partners visit the farms at least once a month and become acquainted with the signs of good feeding and care from the "squeal" to the twist of the tail. The business man who has failed to visit his partner has neglected an opportunity.

Helen Kersten, Janesville, winner of the showmanship prize and owner of the first prize Guernsey calf, told of her club and fair experience.

Stewart Barless, Janesville, told of the care and fitting of baby-beef animals.

The work of the corn club was explained by J. K. Arnold, Y. M. C. A. secretary, chairman of the club. Achievement buttons were given to those turning in record book club work as shown by R. T. Glasco, county agent.

The cups donated by the Janesville Daily Gazette were distributed. Two cups are yet to given out, one for the boy or girl having the record book, given by Lewis C. French and the other for the corn club champion.

"Club work is not alone to win," it was stated. "Real club work means"

"Say it with flowers," Janesville Floral Co.

GAZETTE JUNIOR CLUB CUPS

Special Prizes Given Club Champions.

Each year the Gazette offered cups for special prizes to the juniors winning the championships. These cups become the property of the winners.

This year six cups were offered, five by the Gazette and one by the farm editor for junior club work. Cups will be offered in 1924 for each of the club projects, seven in number. For the first time a cup is offered for the best kept record book, the winner to be decided by the state club leaders.

Four of the cups were distributed at the junior club round-up in Janesville Friday. Two of the cups are to be awarded later, the corn club prize and that offered for the junior keeping the best record on club work.

The four championship cups given out went to the following youths: Marvin Holmerson, having the champion dairy calf.

Paul Lathers, having the champion baby beef.

Russell Glynn, having the champion pig.

Roy Huggins, having the champion sheep.

"I am in club work to do what I can to keep," Rock County Farm Bureau, reads the record book of one club member.

Agriculture in Rock county will be improved as the boys and girls of today are encouraged to seriously study the improvement of well diversified farming. There is no greater development or promotion work that the junior clubs for it is building a foundation in Rock.

Scattered widely throughout the state are 105 pea canneries operated by 83 different companies. Pea packing and dairy industries are out in front by a good margin and plan to stay there.

F. T. Clark, Dodge county, is president of the association. J. J. Witt, butler of Ozaukee county is vice president; W. J. Bore of La Crosse county holds the treasurer's office, while J. H. Fuhrman of Dane county is the secretary.

HONEY TALKS
(No. 9)

When the pall of beautiful clear honey that you bought a few weeks ago begins to get cloudy and thick until it is the color and consistency of tar, don't jump to the conclusion that you've been swindled, or that the honey is adulterated or spoiling. Nothing of the kind. Your honey has begun to granulate.

The change, sometimes called "candyding," or "going to sugar," is only one of Nature's processes, and in no way hurts the flavor or keeping quality of the honey. The honey will granulate, but the honey from some flowers will granulate much quicker than that from others. Honey that is kept in a warm place will stay liquid much longer than if left in a cold cellar or shed.

Granulated honey can readily be brought back to its original liquid form without injury to color or flavor if proper precautions are taken in the operation. Put the can or pail of honey in a larger pail or wash boiler, filled with warm water well up to the top of your honey can. Be sure to place a couple of sticks under the honey can so that the water can circulate all round. Set the whole on the back of the stove where the water will not get hotter than about 140 degrees. Let it stay till the honey gets thoroughly melted all through, and pour as thin as water. This will take from one to four hours, depending on the size of your honey can. If it doesn't stay long enough it will soon granulate again. But under no circumstances must it boil or get near the boiling point. Too much heat will make it turn dark and taste like poor molasses.

Many people prefer to eat honey in its granulated form, and that is one of the finest ways to use it.

The 41st annual meeting of the American Duroc-Jersey association will be held at the Sherman hotel in Chicago on the evening of Dec. 5. The annual banquet will be served the evening of Dec. 4.

TREND OF CORN PRICES

(Farm Bureau Service)

Owing to the unfavorable feeding conditions between prices of hogs and corn, the present tendency is to curtail hog production and sell more corn. Furthermore, corn prices may have some stimulating effect on average next spring. The outcome is likely to be lower prices for corn and a higher hog market ultimately but it will take some time to bring this readjustment about. Based on present indications corn prices until well along in 1924 should remain as high or higher than in the corresponding months of last year. It is not likely, however, that the extremely high prices which prevailed in October this year will be duplicated.

Receipts of corn at primary markets have been small during the last six months. Reserves at terminal points accumulated during the winter were practically used up by midsummer so that arrivals have commanded high prices. The market has declined to some extent as the new crop reached a better condition for shipment and a further moderate decline may take place during the heavy winter movement.

High prices tend to attract more corn into commercial channels. The crop and carry-over in the cornbelt, which furnishes most of the commercial supply, is slightly larger than last year, but the East and South, which always buy a good deal of the corn leaving the surplus states, have and crop. The industrial demand should compare favorably with the last twelve months. Exports declined about 115,000,000 bushels in the last year and offer but little hope of improvement unless prices are much lower.

The new corn crop together with the carry-over of old corn will furnish a bumper crop approximately one per cent greater than last year but less in feeding value as the quality of the new crop is 74.4 per cent, compared with 83 in 1922. The number of hogs, cattle and sheep to be fed is greater than last year but the present tendency is to use but more frugally and larger crops of oats, barley, grain sorghums and the use of more low-grade wheat will take care of part of the increase in feeding requirements.

Good Quality of Fiction in New Books at Library

Stories by such well known authors as Irvin S. Cobb and Ralph Connor among the new fiction recently added to the public library.

"Snake Doctor," by Cobb, a collection of short stories which won the O. Henry Memorial Award for the best short story published in 1922, is one of the volumes acquired.

"The Gaspards of Pine Croft," by Connor, is the story of Paul Gaspard, who, as a consequence of the folly of his father, is called upon to face great temptation and finally wins. The background is in the Windermere Valley.

Basil King's "The Happy Isles" is said to be the best written by him since the publication of "The Inner Shrine," and tells how Tom Whitelaw, a son of wealthy parents, is kidnapped and struggles upward to his own rescue.

The tale of how Rufus Billip took up aviation, deep-sea diving, automobile racing and other risky feats, because he was under the impression that his "best girl" had "turned him down," is told in a new novel by Harry Wilson, author of "Rugles of Red Gap" and "Merton of the Movies."

The bankers who had everything at stake, tried desperately to keep him alive, and so did the girl.

One of the best known books in Europe because it was awarded the prize last year, "My Friend in Limbo," by Jean Giraudoux, is gaining in popularity here. The theme is an interesting case of loss of memory.

A new volume by Samuel Butler, written in his usual satirical style, is advertised to be the best satire on the fads and foolishness since Swift's "Gulliver's Travels." Among the subjects treated are vaccination, the churches, the penal system, mistakes in education and the reliance on machinery.

Another story of the Rocky mountains, "The Wolfers," by Frederick Niven, will be as popular as "The Lost Cabin Mine" by the same author, and other books of the same type. The interest of the story depends on the search for a gold mine and on the usual character of "Wolfers," a poet and adventurer.

"Tar and Feather," by Victor Barbin, is said to be the first novel to expose the forces of intolerance and racial prejudice in America. The four principal characters are a Jew, a Catholic, a Protestant, and a Negro, and the book attempts to solve the problem of the proper place of each in American society.

Louchbourn, accompanied by Principal Dick of Postville, gave an address on "Education." Miss Anna Olson, county supervising teacher, and Miss Marie A. Ladd, Janesville, were also present, the former giving a talk on "The Significance of Thanksgiving." Lunch was served cafeteria style, by the mothers of the district. The proceeds of the box sale will be used for school purposes.

Utility Service WHAT DOLLAR YOU SPEND BUYS MORE VALUE?

Aged Orfordville Resident, 93, Dies

Orfordville—Christian Gilbertson, 93, and blind for the past 10 years, died at his home here, Thursday.

He is survived by six sons, Gilbert, Christ and Albert of Orfordville, and Olaf, Janesville; Edward, Devils Lake, N. D.; and Andrew, Brooklyn, N. Y.; and three daughters, Mrs. Haines and Mrs. Bjorn, Crookston, Minn.

Funeral services were held at 1:15 p. m. Saturday at the Luther Valley church, the Rev. Ivar Rasmussen officiating. Burial was in the Luther Valley cemetery.

FORERUNNERS

Gas and electric companies have to build for the future. They have "peak loads," or periods of maximum demand for service which come sometimes at unexpected moments. If plant capacity is not sufficient to care for these peak loads and still give service to newcomers who seek it, the company is unable to do its full duty and the community suffers. Therefore the companies constantly have to expand their equipment and extend their service facilities.

The new factory that will add to the wealth and population of the town will not be built until its owners are assured of adequate utility service. No firm will even consider the community which cannot offer that service, for gas and electricity are vital to modern industry and practically indispensable to the individual.

The utilities must lead the advance. To do this they must have capital for expansion, and to obtain capital they must be permitted to earn enough to pay costs and to provide a fair return upon the investment that is serving the community through them.

ARTICLE No. 4

One large "Don't" that all Auction players should bear in mind is: Don't insist on playing a hand as a no-trump just because you hold 100 aces. Many a big game or penalty is lost because the holder of 100 aces keeps on bidding no-trump irrespective of the better bid in his hand or of his partner's bidding. Of course it is only reasonable to want to bid a no-trump with 100 aces, and as a rule it is justifiable, but only if one holds the firm intention of shifting to a suit as soon as the bidding indicates that such a course is necessary or expedient. The following hand is a good example of what happens when the lucky holder of 100 aces persists in bidding no-trump:

Hearts — Q, J, 8, 7, 2
Clubs — K, 10
Diamonds — 9, 5
Spades — Q, 9, 3, 2

Hearts — A, 9, 6, 5, 4
Clubs — A, 9, 8
Diamonds — A, 10, 2
Spades — A, 4

Z dealt and bid one no-trump. A passed, Y bid two spades, B passed and Z bid two no-trump. This was not such a bad error. With only four aces, there is a better chance for game at no-trump. A passed and Y now bid three clubs (the proper bid with a two suit hand). B passed and Z now bid three no-trump.

Hearts — J, 10, 4, 3
Clubs — J, 9, 8, 7, 6, 5
Diamonds — Q, 5
Spades — 8

Hearts — 6
Clubs — K, 10, 2
Diamonds — J, 10, 9, 7, 2
Spades — 9, 5, 4, 3

Hearts — A, K, 9, 5, 2
Clubs — A, 4
Diamonds — A, 6, 4
Spades — A, K, 2

With such a hand, Z's only sound bid is one heart. A heart bid practically assures a game, while a game at no-trump is doubtful. In this particular hand Z can make two no-trumps, but no more, while at hearts, with proper play, five odd is a certainty and a little slam a possibility. The lesson to draw from these hands is to handle 100 ace hands for game, rather than for the honor score.

Prefer the no-trump bid only where fairly certain of game, but if either your own hand or your partner's contains a suit that offers a certain game, play the hand at the suit bid. The game is always worth 125 points and the game is the prime objective at Auction. Also be on the lookout for penalties. Very frequently an opponent will overbid the holder of 100 aces and if there is a chance for a big penalty, take it. You hold 100 aces only about every 1000 deals so make them count. Play them for the maximum.

Hearts — None
Clubs — 7, 5, 3
Diamonds — Q, 10, 7, 6, 5
Spades — K, J, 10, 7, 5

Hearts — None
Clubs — 8, 6, 4, 2
Diamonds — 8, 4, 2
Spades — A, Q, 9, 8, 4, 2

Hearts — Q, J, 10, 9, 8, 6, 3
Clubs — A, Q, 10
Diamonds — A, K
Spades — 6

B dealt and bid one heart and Z doubled, a most unusual bid but clever as it led B to believe that the heart strength was divided. A bid one spade, a good bid, as he had no hearts and feared that Y, if he held strength in hearts might pass the information. Y, a good player, did not double one spade because he did not wish to show his spade strength. Instead, he bid two diamonds. B refused to heed his partner's warning and proceeded to bid two hearts. Z doubled and A bid two spades. Y doubled and defeated the bid 500 points, all because B refused to note A's warning bid of one spade over the double. B should have taken this bid as a denial of hearts and inferred that there was great strength against him. He had such a good hand, however, that as he said, he just had to bid. Study this hand carefully for it is a good example of what not to do with apparently big hands.

Solution to Problem No. 2

Hearts — Q, 4
Clubs — K
Diamonds — A, K
Spades — 10, 8

Hearts — 6
Clubs — Q, 9, 8, 7
Diamonds — 10, 9
Spades — None

Hearts — 3
Clubs — A, 10, 6, 5
Diamonds — None
Spades — 5, 4

Hearts are trumps and Z is in the lead. The problem is for Y-Z to win six of the seven tricks against any defense. Solution: Z should lead the five of clubs, winning the trick with Y's singleton king. Y should then lead the ace and king of diamonds. On the first diamond, Z should discard the four of spades, but the second he should trump with the trey of hearts. He should now lead a low club which Y should trump with the queen of trumps, afterwards leading the four of hearts, which A must win with the six of hearts. A has left in his hand only the queen and nine of clubs. Whichever he leads, Z will win both tricks with the ace and ten. It is a tricky problem but easy if you once get the idea.

FORBES MERELY APPROVED CONTRACTS, SAYS CAPTAIN IN VET BUREAU PROBE

Col. Charles R. Forbes, left, and Attorney Ensbey-Smith, his counsel, leaving recent session of bureau probe.

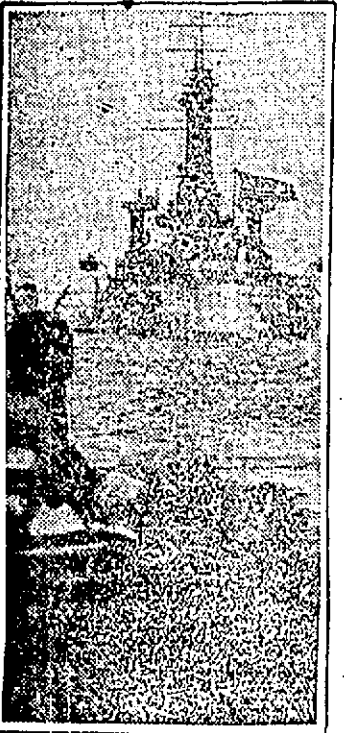

Col. Charles R. Forbes, under fire for alleged grafting and waste in the U. S. Veterans' Bureau under his regime, scored heavily in one of the recent sessions of the senate committee's probe, when Col. Edward S. Walton, U. S. A., absolved the former of all responsibility in connection with the awarding of hospital contracts. Col. Walton testified that the army quartermaster's corp and the navy bureau of yards and docks made all practical awards of contracts and that Forbes merely approved those recommendations. Other witnesses, including Elias H. Mortimer, Philadelphia contractor, have testified to "influences" brought to bear in the selection of hospital sites and the awarding of contracts. Mortimer also has described "wild parties" in which Forbes played a leading part.

Are Your Dollars Going Into a Home That Some Day Will Be Your Own, or Are You Wasting Them on Rent Receipts?

Conditions today are different than they have ever been before—it requires more money to rent now than it does to buy.

Building loans are available at reasonable interest, and this combination of circumstances is creating Home Owners.

With a clear lot, or a lot and a small amount of money, you can arrange to have a home built that will care for all of your requirements—a home that in every way would be more pretentious, modern and convenient than the one you are renting, so there really are no good reasons why you should defer longer getting housed in a home of your own.

If you have never made a start, here's what you should do—select a lot in a neighborhood where you would like to make your future home and start making payments on it. This you should do at once, as lots will never be cheaper. Then determine just how much you can save each month and invest it in building and loan shares or savings account—these are thrift habits which lead you direct to Home Ownership, and they do it in the shortest possible time.

Timely pleasures and unnecessary purchases will attract your dollars unless you obligate yourself to meet definite monthly payments. You know this is true, therefore the sooner you start saving, the quicker will be your reward.

The supporters of these pages hope the suggestions and advice offered will be accepted by you and they are anxious and willing to aid you in every way they can.
